Two Demon Gridders Sign Pro Contracts

Two Northwestern football players have been signed by professional teams.

End Corwyn Aldredge was drafted by both Cleveland of the National Football League and the Boston Patriots of the American Football League. He was Boston's fifth round choice and Cleveland's sixth round selection. He was signed by Cleveland with, perhaps, the best contract ever offered to a Demon griddier.

Tackle Charles Ragus was signed by the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL. He received a bonus although he had not been drafted by teams of either league.

Five former Northwestern players saw action in the pro leagues this year. Charlie Tolar, Charlie Hennigan, Jerry Fowler, and Sammy Joe Odom played with Houston and Jackie Smith has been an end and punter for the St. Louis Cardinals.

$10,000 Endowment

Honor Society To Establish Scholarship In Watson Memory

The Phi Kappa Phi chapter at Northwestern State College is establishing a scholarship in Memory of Dr. Eugene P. Watson, whose death occurred a year ago. Feb. 29.

All who knew Dr. Watson will immediately be aware that such a memorial is most appropriate in view of his scholarly attainments and his fostering of scholarship in others. In his various capacities, including those of professor of library science and librarian, Dr. Watson was thoroughly admired and beloved both on the campus and in the community.

Phi Kappa Phi hopes to achieve an endowment of $10,000, with the interest to be awarded annually to an NSC student of high academic standing.

Through gifts from members of Phi Kappa Phi and from friends, the fund is progressing, and contributions of any amount are welcomed. Funds will be administered through the Northwestern State College Foundation, and are tax deductible. Contributions should be sent to Miss Loneta

Graves, chairman of the Eugene P. Watson Scholarship Fund, NSC, Natchitoches, Louisiana.

Donald Glenn Bennett, is the 13-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bennett (Katherine Taylor, '50), of Pineville.

Spacious Building Fulfills Promise Of Being Multi-Purpose Facility

Though not yet a year old, Prather Coliseum has already established itself as an asset to the college community, the City of Natchitoches, Natchitoches Parish, and the State of Louisiana. Many and varied activities have taken place in its vast space, utilizing its year-round weather control, its fine lighting, and its splendid acoustics.

One of the unique activities recently conducted in the Prather Coliseum was the Louisiana Open Badminton Tournament. Held in December, the tournament drew players from nine Southern States: Texas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Arkansas, North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, and Louisiana. Previous tournaments have attracted participants from Missouri, Maryland, Illinois, and California, as well as many future tournaments. This year the Southern Championship rounds are to be held in the Coliseum on March 12, 13, and 14, and a record number of entries is expected.

Although many kinds of sports activities take place in the coliseum, no other draws the type of participants to which badminton appeals. The important point concerning this wonderful game is the fact that high school boys and girls, college men and women, and post college men and women are all playing it and enjoying themselves as well as keeping physically fit. Players vary in age from 16 years old to 74 years young, and the occupations and professions of those involved in the tournaments read like a placement bureau's dream list.

Players have included a pediatrician, president of an oil company, dentist, president of a steel company, publisher, professors of English, mathematics, social science, physical education, and biology, the Commissioner of Higher Education for the State of Texas, surgeons, lawyers, vice-president of an oil company, electrical contractors, president of an insurance company, printer, medical doctor, chemical engineers, civil engineers, a priest, a minister, professional lobbyist for a major oil company, nuclear physicist, chemists, air conditioning contractor, certified public accountant, auditors, politician, merchants, salesmen, bookkeepers, tax consultant, representative of the President of the U.S.A. to Russia on farm engineering, pilots, coaches, college registrar, social security representative, students from junior high school through graduate school, teachers, and wives and children of the above.

Many mixed doubles teams (one male and one female player) are composed of husband and wife or father and daughter. Often the whole family comes to the tournament, as Natchitoches is a tourist attraction for the non-playing members of the group, and the game is a good spectator sport as well. During the December tournament a medical doctor from Texas brought his wife, their four children, and his neighbor and his wife along to see the Christmas lights and to get in a little fishing. This group spent four days in Natchitoches and plans to come back to the tournament in March. A chemist and a geologist from Oklahoma often bring their families to a tournament, as do a certified accountant from Texas and several lawyers from New Orleans. Without exception, all of the participants and visitors have the highest praise for the hospitality of the college, for the City, and for the Coliseum.

Northwestern now has several students enrolled as a result of participation in one of the two annual badminton tournaments as junior or senior high school players. NSC students who participate in or help with the tournament make excellent contacts under most friendly and pleasant conditions. This is not a purpose of the tournament but is an inescapable by-product of great value.

Induct Prather Into Sports Hall of Fame

H. Lee Prather, deceased former President of Northwestern and longtime coach, athletic director, teacher, and Dean of Men, has been elected to the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

Prather was one of three sports figures who are to be inducted at the annual all-sports banquet of the Shreveport Journal and Chamber of Commerce Feb. 5 at the Country Club. Others are Jimmy Perrin, New Orleans boxer, and Ed Head, Selma pitcher, formerly with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Prather joined NSC in 1913. He served as coach of all major sports for several years, relinquishing all but basketball later, and continuing to serve as cage mentor for 38 years. He became President in 1950 and retired in 1954.

The Alumni Association honored Prather in 1963 at one of his final appearances on campus when he was presented an honorary membership at the Homecoming luncheon. Obviously in failing health, Prather was emotionally affected by the honor.

His photograph, and any mementos of his career which might be made available, will eventually be displayed in a glass display case in the new athletic shrine to be established in a new building currently under construction in Shreveport.

Members of his family are expected to attend and receive honors at the Shreveport banquet.

A feature story on Prather is included in the current edition of The NAIA News, which was released Jan. 26. Prather had served as president of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball, forerunner of the present NAIA organization.

Three Former Gridders Named to All-Pro Team

Three former Northwestern football players have been named to the All-Pro team selected by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Each year the NAIA selects an all-pro team from among graduates to the professional ranks from schools holding membership in the Association.

Charlie Hennigan and Charlie Tolar have been named to the offensive team for a second year and first-year player Sammy Joe Odom was named to the defensive unit at linebacker.

Northwestern was the only school to place two players on the offensive unit.

Probably the last photograph to be made of H. Lee Prather before his death was this one made in 1963 when he accepted an honorary membership in the Alumni Association. He was emotionally moved by this final honor as he replied to the presentation by his longtime friend, C. O. Holland. It is believed to have been his final appearance on the campus. He died Sept. 23, 1964.

Set NSC Relays; Track Team Preps for 1965

The NSC Relays have been scheduled April 12, 13, and 14, according to Ernest (Slim) Howell, track coach, and the meet each day will be conducted in the evening.

The Northwestern team is working daily and will compete in the indoor meet here Feb. 27.

Ledbetter is a top all-around performer. Newcomer Watt, from England, is one of the world's top two-milers. Grodjinovsky, who was restricted by a leg ailment last season, performed for Israel in the Olympics several years ago. Johnson was the second best point producer in 1964.

Magee, a top quarter-miler, is a transfer student and is expected to help the NSC effort.

Ermatinger, a sophomore, is expected to resume his attempts to shatter existing javelin records.

Schedule Indoor Track Meets

The Graduate N Club will sponsor the first annual indoor invitational track meet in Prather Coliseum Friday and Saturday, Feb. 26 and 27.

Wooden banked turns will be provided to transform the large arena into a 10-lap indoor track, perhaps the first in Louisiana providing a hard surface for running events.

High school events will be conducted Friday evening and college and university trackmen will compete Saturday evening.

Demon Gymnasts to Compete

Northwestern's gymnastic team will compete in the Powell-Istrouma invitational meet in Baton Rouge Saturday, Feb. 13 according to Coach Fred Martinez.

A ten-man team will enter the competition and will be accompanied by Coach Martinez and graduate assistant Lloyd Huval. Donnie Willis of Alexandria is team captain.

Northwestern completed successfully in a national gymnastics clinic at Sarasota, Fla., during the Christmas holiday period. The Demons expect to have an improved team for the forthcoming competitive season.

Cagers Lose 5 Contests After Winning Start

The Northwestern basketball team got off to a fast and surprising start to set a good 7-2 mark before losing five consecutive contests. A win over Oglethorpe University here Jan. 26 gave the Demons an 8-7 mark prior to meeting Centenary in Prather Coliseum Saturday, Jan. 23.

Coach Huey Cranford's team was led in early season by junior guard Lester Lee, a former St. Mary's of Natchitoches prepster. Sophomore David Clark, former Natchitoches high school Red Devil player, missed several games in early season because of an injury but took over the scoring leadership on returning to action, after Lee was injured.

The Demons opened with a surprising pair of wins over Southeastern Oklahoma. They followed up with wins over Nicholls and Louisiana College before falling to Lamar Tech at Beaumont. Returning to the safety of their home court, they scored a win over Stephen F. Austin and then shaded Nicholls at Thibodaux. Climax of the first half of the season was the home court win over Lamar Tech 79-71. This pushed the NSC record to 7-2.

Then the Demons went into a spin, losing five contests, including three Gulf States Conference battles.

With an even 7-7 mark, Northwestern edged Oglethorpe 71-67 to set up the home battle with rival Centenary Jan. 23.

In conference play Northwestern had lost to Southeastern, McNeese, and Northeast. They resume their GSC schedule here Jan. 28 in the first of two battles against arch rival Louisiana Tech. This was followed by a Feb. 2 home date with Southwestern.

Coaches Name Three NSC Players to All-GSC Team

Three Northwestern football players were named to the All-Gulf States Conference team selected by coaches at the annual fall meeting in Alexandria recently.

Players named to the team were end Corwyn Aldredge, guard Lawrence Nugent, and full-back Claude Patrick. Aldredge, a senior, has signed a professional grid contract with the Cleveland Browns. He is from St. Francisville.

Patrick, from Holly Ridge, was a junior performer and Nugent, from Bastrop, a sophomore.

Patrick and Nugent are expected to return next season and both should be candidates for honors at the end of the 1965 season.

Julie Michelle and Mayo Keator Prudhomme, twins, are the children of Capt. and Mrs. Mayo Keator Prudhomme. Capt. Prudhomme, '55, is now stationed at McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, Wash.
